The next best hand is known as a straight flush, and this hand consists of five cards that are not only in sequential order, but that all have the same suit. With this hand, it is important to note that there are varying levels of worth within the hand. For instance, a straight flush that consists of an eight, a nine, a ten, a jack and a queen is better than a straight flush consisting of a three, a four, a five, a six and a seven. The reason for this is that the cards in the first example are higher than the cards in the second example. There is no difference in value between the suits, however. instant bingo bonus codes 2017
