If there is a tie ("push") between a player and the dealer, in most casinos the game is canceled and the bet is refunded. A player who is lucky enough to make exactly 21 points ("blackjack") on his 1st hand wins 1.5 times his wager, unless the dealer also makes blackjack on the 1st hand. In that case the game is a push and the wager is refunded. A player who does not have blackjack but who nevertheless has more points than the dealer wins 1:1 on his wager. When a player "busts," he is out of the game and loses his wager. Even if both the player and the dealer bust, the player loses – this accounts for the house edge.
